We like to say thank you to our potential partners who have been monitoring our progress since announcing our mission and objectives in the past year or more. The last few months has been much of a slow revamp of our structures and logistics including rebooting this website for the intended multi-user capability. We value your feedback regarding your experience navigating the site.

We welcome individuals and group who identify with our objectives to consider this resource as very much another opportunity to make the change we seek happen.

Communities in the African sub-region has for too longer being in the shadows regarding transparent and honest leadership. Countries are beleaguered by lacklustre leaders whose only motivation is egoistic pursuits with the sole aim of amassing stupendous wealth at the peril of their hapless citizens.

Our mission is to stem these erroneous patterns and foster values aimed at promoting and rewarding excellence through our 'PIE' initiative.

To make access less onerous, we have configured this platform to allow users to sign in/register with their current social media account - blogger, google, twitter or facebook accounts. For those who wish to register with firstbaze.com (partners, competition participants or contributors), they may do so by completing our contact form which would trigger your account registration.

Look out for our challenges, take part in our quizzes, send us specific news from your area and you may just be surprised what opportunities your actions would bring.

Yep Firstbaze is for the greater good!
